Special Chamber meeting called

A special meeting of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce has been called for 12:00 noon TOMORROW, THURSDAY, JUNE 1, at the Empress.

Due to the lack of a quorum at the May 17 regular meeting, a number of key decisions could not be made, and items including the sponsorship of the Canada Day Pancake Breakfast are still pending. It is vital that these be attended to without further delay. The June 7 regular meeting is too late to deal with these matters, so a special meeting has been called. Please attend, and help your Chamber to help Elk Point.

VIDEO POINT PANASONICS—were the 'A' side champions in the Third Annual Jan Frisby Memorial Slowpitch Tournament sponsored by the Elk Point and District

Lions Club last weekend at Whitney Lake, with a 14-6 win over Tullibly Lake in the final game.

Video Point wins tourney

Elk Point's Video Point Panasonics downed Tullibly Lake by an eight-run margin in the 'A' Side final of the Third Annual Jan Frisby Memorial Slowpitch Tournament hosted by the Elk Point and District Lions Club this past weekend.

Video Point earned top prize money of $450 in the 12-team tourney, with Tullibly Lake receiving $350. The Terminators placed third in the 'A' event, winning $250, while the Misfits picked up the $150 fourth prize.

Brunswick Red Eyes defeated Hooters in the 'B' final to win $350, with $250 going to the Hooters squad, while Kehewin Red Wings and Kehewin Top Guns won $150 and $50 respectively for third and fourth place in the event.

Special thanks go to the Terminators, who donated their winnings back to the Lions, to be donated toward the Cancer Fund along with the proceeds from the tournament.

Council attempts zero increase budget

Elk Point Town Council debated long and hard last Tuesday night in their attempts to keep the 1989 municipal mill rate at 1988 figures. Expenses were trimmed, and trimmed again, with even such items as lapel pins and newspaper subscriptions decreased in number, and Mayor Bruce Kleeberger and his council members taking a $150 pay cut apiece, in order to keep the mill rate down.

School, County and M. D. of St. Paul Foundation requisitions will hike the ratepayers' total tax bills substantially, Council was told, but this is a matter over which the Town has no control.

The 1989 budget is expected to be finalized at the June 5 regular meeting.

That date will also see a final draft of the revised administration and policy guidelines for the Family and Community Support Services come before Council for their endorsement. Streamlining the FCSS Department, operation of the Satellite Day Home Program as a part of the FCSS program stream, and signing the agreement for government funding support of the FCSS program were also on Council's agenda.

Council approved an application for funding under the Alberta Public Safety Service Regional Response Improvement Program, for the acquisition of a new, fully equipped emergency response unit. The County of St. Paul has indicated approval in principle to cost sharing the project.

With summer soon approaching, Council pondered the annual problem of weed control on vacant lots, and decided to notify the owners of such properties that the responsibility of controlling weeds rests with the said owners.

A request from the County of St. Paul Board of Education for temporary school bus loading on 51 Street during the afternoon dismissal time was agreed to. The move is necessary because of the construction at the Elementary School which has made it unsafe to load the buses in the area directly south of that school. School personnel have indicated that they are willing to erect and remove barricades to indicate the daily closure, which will be from 3:00 to 3:20 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday, until construction is complete or the school term ends.

Mural Park plans brought to council

Representatives of the Elk Point and District Historical Society Mural Park Committee met with Town Council last week to discuss planning of a park which would provide an attractive setting for the 100-foot historical mural now gracing a stream bank immediately west of Elk Point Public Library.

A slide presentation showing the mural and folders with the history and objectives of the project were provided to Council for their information.

Some funding for the park has already been obtained, with a Community Recreation and Culture Grant, a $4000 allotment from the Historical Society, and an indication that the Elks Lodge will provide lighting for night viewing of the mural. Alberta Parks and Recreation has been approached regarding grant funding, and another grant is possible through the Alberta Historical Resources Foundation. Several service clubs have indicated a willingness to donate toward the project.

In the immediate future, the Park Committee asked for help from the Public Works department in maintaining the area during the coming summer, from Public Works Superintendent Ron Fraess in surveying for site elevations, and from the Administration in making application for grants. All three were approved by Council.

An estimate of just under $31,000 was given for the completed project, which is expected to take 3 years to complete.

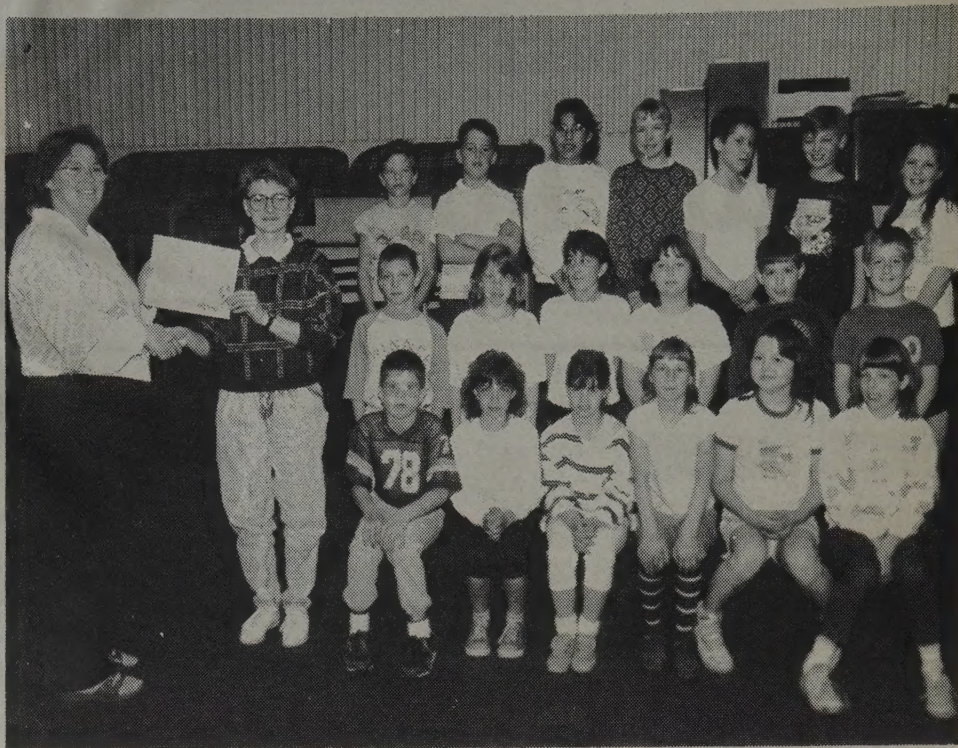

Track and field champs compete at zones

Ten top track and field athletes from F. G. Miller High School travelled to Fort McMurray early this week to take part in Zone level competition, following their success at the County meet held at Regional High School, St. Paul.

Participact - just for fun!

Today's the day! Put on those sneakers and get out and do your stuff, Elk Point!

Remember last year--the coffee cup races, aerobics, skipping and speed typing downtown at noon hour, as the businesses and school got involved, an entire schoolyard full of kids doing aerobics in midafternoon, the Council ball game against St. Paul, the Ukrainian Dancing, Wunderdogs, golf demonstration, Stinky Sneaker Contest, water balloon toss and Texas Line Dance on Main Street? It was great!

Not only did this provide an entertaining day, it showed many people that they could get out and exercise just for the fun of it--those up-down-touch-the-ground kind of calisthenics aren't the only way to be fit.

Some of us played ball for the first time since high school--and found out we weren't as old and creaky as we (and others) thought we were. Some walked to work, and found out it felt good to be out in the fresh air bright and early in the morning. Some tried out the golf course for the first time and found it to be a most enjoyable way to spend their leisure hours. Still others rode a bike uptown, and found they had a much easier time finding a parking spot than usual. Some even found that they enjoyed the day so much that they kept right on doing these activities all year long.

This year will provide some new activities, including a chance to try out the new hiking trails adjacent to the golf course, and an opportunity for the Town of Elk Point to get their revenge over St. Paul, on St. Paul's home turf.

Make sure you're a part of it all--PARTICIPACT--just for the fun of it!

Three-day soaker

By Irene Magnusson

Long ago, when the world may not have been much younger - but I certainly was - we had what my Dad called a 'three-day soaker.' This usually occurred the first week of June, or last week of May. I've no idea how much rainfall was normal, in a good three-day soaker, but it was the key to a successful summer.

This long, slow, saturating drizzle made the grass green up, the flowers burst from their hidden seeds, roots, or bulbs under the earth, and the cows to suddenly start filling the pails to overflowing with rich sudsy milk, the cream skimmed from it make butter the bright shade of gold.

To make life interesting for us, too, there would usually be the odd milch cow that had not as yet delivered her calf for the spring, and would choose this sudden time to disappear out of the herd to go off into the forest to have her baby.

There was lots of bush around, between the much smaller fields and meadows, and no one had to pasture the living daylight out of the bush-pasture, as they do now, where there remains nothing but a few stark bare tree-trunks. In those days of my youth the willows hung thick and low, the spruce boughs swept the earth, the poplars wept copiously down over your drenched shoulders with every breath of wind...actually, I think they could shrug their branches in a sort of teasing game upon us, as we wandered in the drizzle, for hours, searching for those hidden mothers.

On you went, until you found the beasties, or the dark came down so thick you had trouble finding your own way home. Squish, squish, squish, went your gumboots, drip, drip, drip went the trees, drizzle, drizzle, drizzle from the cloudbanks, 'till you felt and you knew you would freeze. Back and forth across the farm, knowing you could pass only a couple of rods from the hiding bovine and never see her, as she stood or laid, silently as a ghost, just waiting, or, if the newcomer had arrived, keeping it quiet with soft moo and gentle sicks of her long tongue.

Why did we try so hard? Dad - and later my own farmer - knew there were pitfalls to calving, even when the season was milder and rain fell instead of snow. Especially with the Holsteins we came to favor, the heavy producers, they could develop milk fever in a big hurry, and die of it if not treated soon enough. Then, too, the wee calfie could get a chill, and there were many other reasons for getting the shy mother back with the herd, such as swiping her calf, and getting her into the milking stall.

I'm not trying to insinuate that I would be the only one out there searching the dripping woods. The whole family (at least my older brothers) and I would be out. This was not always a lost cause, because by the time it is June and a three-day downpour comes, the lady-slippers would be out, the shooting stars, the blue violets in profusion, and masses of marshmarigolds in the lowlands.

So I was wondering, on this cool and drizzly May day, if we were once again enjoying a three-day soaker. It is about the third day now, with spits and dribs of rain. My gauge measures over three-fourths of an inch, which is a goodly bit, for this time of year, and will do countless dollars worth of good to the crops. Gardens, too.

Other parts of our fair land are having snow flurries, and some, snow banks. But to date, here, we have had rain. I saw a few marigolds from the road, so thought it about time I went over to my swamp and see how they are coming. I tucked the camera in my bosom, to keep it dry, pulled on my long boots and wandered over to the east quarter to see what was in the woods. I had barely stepped into the spruce grove, when I spied, overhead on a dead branch, a great horned owl, watching my advance into his domain.

He was utterly silent and motionless, save for the slow spin of his head, as he followed my passage into the grove. I took a couple of pictures, a bit timidly, for how do I know how he might react to my intrusion into, perhaps, his nesting territory. But he said nothing, nor flew off. I went on, over to the streambed, finding it partly filled with rainwater. It had been dry when I wandered there last, a few weeks ago.

The marshmarigolds, shaded more thickly than in the area along my neighbor's slough were still mostly green buttons, with only the odd one opened. I wandered about, climbing over fallen logs, moss-covered stumps chipped by woodpeckers, and squirrel villages under mounds of pinecone petals. I saw a few white violets, the tiny ones, very rare now.

At last, I agreed with myself it was time to go back home.

There is nothing more silent to walk on than a carpet of wet pine needles and moss, so I thought I just might slink along back and see the owl again. I prowled along, very slowly, touching nothing, my footsteps as quiet as if I walked in a featherbed. I swung my gaze to and fro, combing the upper branches, where I hoped to see the big fellow again, but found no sight of him.

I came to the edge of the spruce, skirting a pile of old lumber, logs and junk dumped at the edge of the grove, keeping my gaze up in the branches. Nothing. Still, hoping I might see a nest, or a squirrel, I backed slowly away, merely glancing down to keep from stepping in a hole or entanglement. I am about thirty feet away, when my gaze sweeps over the pile of logs. There sits my great horned owl, calm as can be, watching me make my getaway. I probably passed ten feet from him.

I slowly raised my camera, took a couple of shots, owl paying no attention. I wanted one more, but he had turned his head away from me. I gave a tiny whistle, the head swings back. Click. I have probably harassed him too much already, but he certainly didn't seem alarmed - or even hostile.

I came on home, pausing to snap a couple of close-ups of blue violets. I see my own large plastic owl in the yard, looking much like the fellow out in the wilds. But mine can't turn his head all the way round, without moving anything else.

Perhaps tomorrow we can get back to planting the gardens or mowing the grass. We may even see frost where the pumpkin will be next fall. But I think we are all pleased to have had this three-day soaker. Even if it wasted my carwash.

Annual tea a success

By Irene Magnusson

May 12, World Health Day, Florence Nightingale's Birthday - Hospital Day. Call it what you will - it is the day of the year chosen by the Elk Point Hospital Auxiliary to hold their chief fund-raising event, the Tea and Bazaar. This May 12 was no exception. Plans were made, baking and stitchery done, posters posted.

The day co-operated, with sun and new leaves on the trees. Ladies from far and near came, arms laden with articles for the several tables, and for the tea plates. Tickets sold for the raffle were turned in, and the Hospital kitchen staff kindly made sandwiches and turned their dining cafeteria into a busy tearoom.

At 2 p.m., Gloria Lecopoy, President of the Auxiliary, raised her voice to welcome all to the event, and declared the sales open. When the brief first surge of purchasing had died down and customers went on to have their tea, it was noted that the heavily laden tables of an hour earlier, were now almost swept clean.

Near the end of the two-hour event, the draws were made. A gorgeous hooked rug was won by Agnes Moroziuk, 1st prize, and the runner-up award, a wall hanging, went to Isobel Myshaniuk. At the same time a draw was made for the lovely hand-made lace tablecloth, donated and created by Leona Moneta, and won by Irene Jacobson.

A donation of $100 was made to the Auxiliary by the Alberta Association of Registered Nursing Assistants, (AARNA) Elk Point Branch, who had a table laden with information Health leaflets, plus their photo album for public viewing and interest. The donation was presented during the Tea.

The sale, which closed at 4 p.m., was considered quite successful, and thanks go to the many persons who donated baking, crafts, plants and white elephant items, as well as those who donated their time and efforts, and especially to the enthusiastic customers.

The breakdown of earnings for the Auxiliary was as follows; Raffle, $494.00; Draw, $220.00; White Elephant and Plant table, $75.00; Tea, $82.45; Baking table, $220.90 and as usual, the Crafts - all that lovely stitchery - brought the largest return, $226.50. This, together with the $100 Donation, brought in a total of $1418.85 to the coffers of the auxiliary, all of which is used for the betterment of life for those persons (and that could be you or me) who for any reason, must spend time as patients in the Elk Point Hospital.

It was a bit comical, that as the Bazaar and Tea proceeded, a team of workmen were scaling ladders in the halls, bent on repair work to the overhead ducts above the ceilings, bits and pieces of debris showering down over the floors around us, adding to the excitement of the day. In any case, I forgot to mention that the Auxiliary Tea and Bazaar was held in the waiting room of the Elk Point Hospital, making use of the canteen area to sell tickets for the raffle, the use of these areas, as well as the cafeteria, gratefully acknowledged by the Auxiliary.

Thanks are extended from the Auxiliary to one and all who assisted with this event.

Metis Settlements

Long term finance in proposed agreement

This is the fourth in a series of articles on the Alberta-Settlements Accord - the proposed agreement between the Metis Settlements and the Alberta Government on Settlement land, government, and finance. The Accord is subject to the approval of the Settlement members in a referendum to be held on June 20. This article deals with financial arrangements in the Accord.

The Alberta-Settlements Accord includes a proposed finance agreement between the Settlements and the Province. This agreement deals with both short term and long term financial arrangements for the Settlements. The agreement covers levels of funding from the Province, what expenditure items are covered by these funds, and the system for budgeting, administering, and accounting for funds under the agreement. It is proposed that the specific dollar figures will be dealt with in a court approved agreement that can be enforced by the Courts.

Essentially, the proposed finance agreement sets up three stages of financing - a seven year "Transition Period" starting in 1990 when financing will be provided to build up the Settlement communities; a 10 year "Post-Transition Period" when the emphasis will be to maintain and support what the communities have built up; and a long term development fund to secure the financial future for the Settlements. The overall goal of the agreement is to allow the Settlement people to become economically self-sufficient and to participate and contribute positively to the regional economy.

During the 7 year Transition period from 1990 - 1997, the Province will transfer to the Settlement $25 million per year. This replaces the $7 million per year that the Settlements currently receive. These funds are to be used to build up the communities - specifically, they are to be used for capital investments such as housing, recreation facilities, roads, natural gas, water and sewer, etc., as well as economic development projects. These funds also cover basic operation, maintenance and administrative costs.

During the Post-Transition period from 1997 - 2007, direct transfer payments from the Province drop from $25 million to $10 million per year. On top of this base amount, the Province will match funds contributed by the Settlements - first at a rate of $2 - $1, then at a rate of $1 - $1. Settlements may use several different sources for their contribution - including industrial taxes which will now be going to the Settlements rather than to the ID's. Also, starting in the Post-Transition period, the Settlements will be able to access municipal assistance grants - those funds generally available to ID's MD's and other local governments. (It is possible that these funds may be available to Settlements from the first year of the agreement).

The finance agreement ends in the year 2007. Settlements will continue to be a local government, however, and should therefore have continued access to municipal grants and other ongoing programs. More important perhaps, money in addition to the $25 million per year will be put away for the first 7 years as a "Future Development Fund". This fund will be allowed to grow over the 17 year period. With an inflation rate of 4% and an interest rate of 9%, there would be $139 million in this fund at the end of 17 years.

The monies transferred from the Province to the Settlements under this agreement only cover basic capital and operations items. Settlement people continue to have access to normal government benefits and programs in the areas of education, health care, social assistance, recreation, and job projects. Settlements also continue to have their Trust Fund separate from this agreement.

Also under the agreement, the government guarantees that Settlement members will be eligible for all Provincial agriculture, business, and economic development programs generally available to Albertans. Until now, Settlement members have been denied access to many of these because of the Settlements' land holding system.

As far as control over the funds from this agreement is concerned, there are two ways that spending is controlled. The first is from the Settlement members. Settlement members must approve the Settlements' basic annual spending plan - the annual Settlement budget. This is done by a budget by-law approved by the people at a General Meeting called with at least 2 weeks notice to discuss the matter. Settlement people also have access to essentially all Settlement documents including financial reports and Council must present annual audited financial statements to the people at a General Meeting.

The other check on the funds from this agreement is that for the first 7 years, there is joint administration of all monies by the Settlements and the Provincial Government. The mechanism to operate the joint administration of funds is a "Metis Settlements Transition Commission". This Commission is to be set up by legislation for a period of 7 years but it can exist for a longer or shorter period if both the Settlements and the Province agree. The Commission will have a mandate to ensure that monies from this agreement are properly managed, properly accounted for, and are spent consistent with the budget as approved by the members. The Commission will be appointed by and will report to both the Settlements through the Metis Settlements General Council and the Province through the Provincial Cabinet.

As far as local levies are concerned, the proposed Metis Settlements Act gives the Settlements the authority to set these similar to municipalities in Alberta. On the Settlements, however, these are set by by-law - that means that no levy can be imposed without the approval of the Settlement members at a General Meeting called to discuss the matter. This is different from the current system where the Minister sets the levy at whatever rate he considers appropriate. From now on, any change in the levy will have to be approved by the people.

Employers and homeowners! Need a job filled for an hour, day, or week? Save yourself unnecessary bother by making one phone call to Hire-A-Student.

Hire-A-Student is a co-operative program sponsored by local community groups, Alberta and local Chamber of Commerce, Employment and Immigration Canada and Alberta Career Development and Employment. The program objective is to help students find employment during the summer months. For employers, Hire-A-Student provides a free referral service which helps find the most qualified students to specific employment needs. Hire-A-Student does the active prospect search while you, the employer, does the actual hiring.

To date, over 190 students are registered with Hire-A-Student varying in age, education, and experience. They range from junior high and high school students with limited work experience but plenty of enthusiasm, to university and college students with special experience. These students are willing to fill in for your vacationing employees, provide extra staff for your summer work load or assist in your immediate short term needs. They are also ready and eager to work at your home or farm to complete those odd jobs that you have been avoiding.

By hiring a student, you will be giving them valuable experience in the work force and provide the necessary resources they need for furthering their education. In addition, the students you hire could become a useful member of your permanent staff upon graduation, or may be able to continue their services on a part-time basis throughout the year.

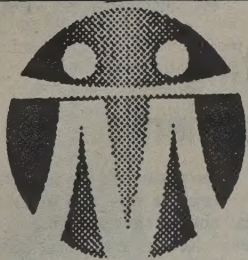

The St. Paul Hire-A-Student office services employers and students in St. Paul and the surrounding area; including Elk Point, Ashmont, Glendon, and Mallaig. If you are an employer that has a job that could be filled by a student, drop by the office or call 645-6019. Remember, Hire-A-Student is a FREE referral service. The Hire-A-Student office is located on the second floor of the Canada Employment Centre, 5105-50 Avenue.

Dog racing - a growing sport

By Mildred Dunham

Emily MacDonald (nee Lemecka) moved back to the Primrose district after being away for over forty years. Emily and husband Milton (Mac to his friends) raised their family of three boys and one girl who make their homes in and around Calgary. Now, with their children gone, they are retiring from their jobs and have taken on a new and different hobby, which is raising registered Siberian Huskies.

Once, only a sport and necessity in the North West Territories, racing dogs is becoming a fast growing and popular sport throughout Alberta. Emily took part in the races held in Bonnyville this spring. She hopes that other people from this area will take interest so she'll have company next year.

Siberian and Alaskan Huskies make the best sled dogs but any larger dog can be taught to pull. In fact, Emily uses a border collie for a lead dog to train the Siberian pups. If properly trained, Siberians will not attack dogs of other breeds. They are basically gentle but timid. Emily plans on entering her dogs in the Elk Point Canada Day parade this year.

STARSCOPE

By Eileen Norby

The Sun is the center of our solar system, around which all the other heavenly bodies revolve. Without the Sun, life as we know it could not exist. In Astrology, the Sun also plays a vital role. For most people, it is the "center" of the birth chart, the most powerful and important of the Astrological bodies. Consequently, its influence is felt and demonstrated in nearly every area of our life. The Sun represents your "yang" side, the side you show to the world. The part of yourself you like best. Your conscious side. The Moon represents your subconscious side.

Aries (Mar 21 - Apr 19)

Setting your sights on practical targets today won't be easy, but it could save a lot of wasted effort before the day is over. If a conflict arises with family interests and job responsibilities, don't try to make everybody happy, making yourself unhappy.

Taurus (Apr 20 - May 20)

It's back to the real world for you Taurus, which is likely to induce a case of the blahs. It's difficult to concentrate on work. The new Moon will bring sudden changes. Two heads are better than one. Join forces and you'll get all the support you need.

Gemini (May 21 - Jun 20)

Happy birthday Gemini! You prefer being spontaneous, doing things on the spur of the moment. Someone close may not accept your ideas. Catch up on your household chores. The new Moon will energize your love life. Someone respects your multi-faceted individuality.

Cancer (Jun 21 - Jul 22)

You are driving your love partner up the wall with your touchy, moody ways of late. Basically, you need to reach out with your feelings. You are the "powers behind the throne". Your birthstone, the glowing ruby symbolizes the Sun itself. You'll be fine!

Leo (Jul 23 - Aug 22)

Your first impressions are always right. You are now on more solid ground emotionally. You need a fresh start, try No! as the theme. The bridge is wide Leo, but quite crossable. You have a slow sense of humor lately with a possible weight problem.

Virgo (Aug 23 - Sept 22)

Lunar change accents basic values and income. Older person needs your patience and kindness. They will outline their needs. People want to be around you. Open lines of communication. A good opportunity may boomerang. Don't push but be watchful!

Libra (Sept 23 - Oct 22)

Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. One who promised help could be evasive. Individual who flatters, is sincere! Protect yourself in the clinches. You are concerned with distance, language, ability to "fill the gap". It'll all come true.

Scorpio (Oct 23 - Nov 21)

You will have co-operation from someone who previously opposed you. Cycle swings in your favor. Emphasis on friendship, hopes, desires. Keep the mail flowing to reap rewards. Don't be impulsive, people will come to you. Accept what they have to offer, graciously.

Sagittarius (Nov 22 - Dec 21)

Don't rely on guess work, know your facts. Be ready for a short trip. Two people working together in the same direction can build untold castles and wealth. Odds and sods annoy you but you can't seem to clean them up. Take it one day at a time.

Capricorn (Dec 22 - Jan 19)

You will radiate warmth and affection for everyone. There are some frustrations looming on your horizons. You may have been on the right track in your thinking. Culture events will occupy your weekend. Flexibility is the watch-word for this week, Capricorn.

Aquarius (Jan 20 - Feb 18)

Starting a new project? A strong love relationship has been put through a big test. You're waiting for a decision. Conflict has an answer, yet income, and ability to meet financial deadline is shaky. Where there's a will there's a way. Darkest before the dawn.

Pisces (Feb 19 - Mar 20)

Reunion with lots of happiness, music and gourmet dining. Celebrating was fun but now comes the financial pressure, responsibility, always gratitude. The investment was worth it. Consider your words this week before sending them out over the air waves.

Pointers on visiting long-term care patients

By Irene Magnusson

On the afternoon of May 19, Diana Anderson, Director of Nursing at the Elk Point Hospital, offered a seminar on the most acceptable procedures to use by those wishing to visit patients in hospitals, in particular those in long-term care. Patients in nursing homes and extended care units are most likely, but not always, the elderly.

Many misconceptions have developed and lingered over the years, she stated, on the elderly ill, how age affects them and how younger persons perceive them. Persons in institutions may be ill, or weak, or old, but they are still humans, with human needs and feelings, and these should be respected and remembered, both by caretakers and visitors.

A list of ten conceptions of elderly persons was offered, all of which proved to be misconceptions, but could be believed by younger persons, acting without due thought.

A number of ways were offered in the course, in which a visitor or a caretaker, could show respect, sympathy, love and concern for these patients. Merely speaking to them, in a fashion to ensure they will find you sincere, friendly, and caring, could mean a lot. A friendly touch, a hug, a smile, a small caring task done for them can show your friendship, love and concern.

The group of listeners was small, but attentive, as Mrs. Anderson carried on through the extensive lists of best "Do's" and "Don't's" to employ when visiting extended care patients. Perhaps it could best be summed up by the suggestion to put one's self in the position of the patient, and try to imagine what you would feel like in similar circumstances.

No one, at any age, will be pleased to lose their freedom, their mobility, their familiar belongings, home, furnishings - even clothing - and to be unwell on top of all that. We have only to think about it a moment to realize how dearly we cherish our privacy, so we should always knock before entering a patient's room. A smile begets a smile, so why go in with a frown, or sober face?

Anderson had several leaflets, prepared by those who know and care, these are available from her office and could be studied with benefit by those interested in visiting long-term patients, in particular, the elderly, and with a view to bringing them solace and comfort.

It was a most enlightening program, prepared by thoughtful caring people. A shame many more persons were not there to participate. After all, we all will be old one day, many of us will be disabled or ill, many will spend countless days in the confinement this brings. We all will need the loving care our elders need now. I wonder if we will deserve it?

If one wished to visit patients in long-term care units (besides family members) they could contact, and get approval from, the Pastoral Care Committee, who would explain the best methods, and perhaps issue them a name badge, and set up a regular schedule for visits. The hospital you wished to visit would be able to give you the information required to properly do this, with the most benefit to the patients, and the most satisfaction to yourself, Mrs. Anderson said, in closing.

Early caterpillar control important

It's become another sign of spring. As leaves begin to appear on trees, forest tent caterpillars begin munching their way through the new leaves.

Stopping the caterpillars early, when they've just hatched, is the easiest way to deal with the insect says Pam North, information officer for the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticulture Centre in Edmonton.

"When they are small there are more alternatives for getting rid of the caterpillars. Be aware. You can prune off small branches with the caterpillars or scrap them off into a container and dispose of them. Also, when they're small, a good strong jet of water from a hose may wash them off," she says.

The caterpillars start to hatch from their egg bands soon after the trees begin to leaf out. They are very small and black in color after hatching. They also tend to cluster together.

As they get larger and molt, they take on the more familiar look with a dark brown body, wide blue stripe down each side and row of white or cream colored footprint shaped spots down their back.

North says many people have asked about a biological insecticide for use on tent caterpillars. The product, called Bt, is a bacterium that only affects the larvae of moths and butterflies. "That makes it safe for use around humans, wildlife, birds, fish and beneficial insects," she says.

To be effective, the tent caterpillars must ingest the bacterium, so timing of the application is critical. Caterpillars must be at least one to two cm long, spraying should cover the foliage well, there shouldn't be rain for 24 hours and mid-day temperatures should reach at least 15 to 20°C. The bacterium is sold as Thuricide or organic insect killer.

This biological insecticide doesn't kill caterpillars immediately. The caterpillars stop feeding within a day and they die within seven to ten days.

There are also a variety of insecticides on the market for controlling tent caterpillars. Registered products include: carbaryl (trade name Sevin), methoxychlor, diazinon, malathion and pyrethrin. As well, North says insecticidal soap works when caterpillars are small.

Historical Society going strong

By Irene Magnusson

The Elk Point and District Historical Society met in the Library, May 8, with eight members present. Minutes were adopted, after correction. It was reiterated that signage is required, both inside and out of town, regarding the Mural.

President Frank Mayner said that interest accumulated is available for the expenditures of the Society. The cost of the Mural, installed, was approximately $25,000, from all sources.

The Float committee has examined the float; hopefully it will be decorated and entered in the Canada Day parade.

A request from Town Council for more information re the Mural Park was read. This will be acted upon. A notice regarding the Seniors Information Day (June 9th) was read, with a request that the Society man a table. This met with agreement.

Mike O'Neill has taken a number of slides of the Mural, and will add to the collection. This addition will bring his presentation up to about 15 minutes in length, the Society agreeing to cover this additional cost.

Sid Holthe, former chairman of the group, is going to Lethbridge soon to accept an Award, and wishes to make a publicity presentation of the accomplishments of the Historical Society. To this end he will take photos, maps and pins. O'Neill showed the first order of pins received, of the Mural, and these were admired and approved. More will be ordered, also of the other variety, if approved, when they are received. Members each received a pin. These should be available to all by Canada Day.

Some discussion followed regarding the possibility of entertaining visitors to the Forts Sites, with possibly Heritage Day as the time to do it. Plans will be considered and a program formulated on this and the public kept informed. Work will continue at the Fort George-Buckingham House sites throughout the summer.

The work of the nominating committee to replace retiring executives has resulted in the appointing of Ray Hellquist as Treasurer, replacing Lawrence Modin, who has been Treasurer since the formation of the Society in 1976. Larry Demchuk will assume the office of Vice-President. Sid Holthe (who had resigned due to illness earlier) has now been reinstated to the Advisory Board.

Demchuk advised he had enquired and learned of a "Store Front" place which could be rented for the summer, to be used as a visitors' information area, with posters, maps and perhaps videos, all advertising the event of the Sites restoration, the Mural, and other historical attractions as deemed suitable. This was agreed to. O'Neill and Demchuk will attend to details of this, and also purchase a Guest Book.

Demchuk also reported the visit of the Minister of Culture who, together with MLA John Drobot and Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Isley, visited the scene of the Forts Sites. It was termed a 'wonderful location,' the river view much admired. Others, including Dr. Burn, were also present.

It was noted that the Tourist Information booth would open May 24. The Society's next meeting will be June 6, a Tuesday, at the Library. Brochures will be ordered at once, re the Forts. Mike O'Neill then showed his video of the Mural, much enjoyed by the members.

R.C.M.P. bring info to seniors

By Irene Magnusson

Constable Doug Huskins of the Elk Point RCMP detachment, hosted an information evening for seniors in conjunction with Police Week, on May 17, at the Pioneer Circle drop-in centre. A very good crowd showed up, to hear presentations from Charlene Vagas Manager Program Services, Municipal Affairs, Edmonton, on the Seniors' Home Improvement Program and its update. She went through the procedure of eligibility and application, how the grants are made available, and what may be the uses. The additional grant of $1000, which will become available after the new year, was mentioned, together with the criteria of the senior homeowner who may apply for this. The second speaker of the evening, Len Kochan, Regional Officer from Consumer and Corporate Affairs, opened his remarks in praise of the effort made by Con. Huskins, in arranging the seminar, calling it preventative protection, since the information could help seniors avoid being scalped or rooked before it happened, rather than after.

Len Kochan's talk dealt with how to go about planning renovations to a home, how to plan the project, to select a Contractor, how to prepare the contract, deciding how payment will be made and knowing what are the renovator's rights and responsibilities. These steps were illustrated with the help of a video tape, bringing home many of the pitfalls a senior - or perhaps anyone - might find in accomplishing a proper job, with satisfaction to both the homeowner and the contractor.

It would seem "look before you leap" would be the best policy to follow, and when in doubt - ask, particularly ask your neighbors and friends, those you trust, who may have had similar work done, to recommend contractors they found reliable, careful and satisfactory. A second film showed, in a graphic way, how the door-to-door con man (or woman) might go about collecting money from the homeowner or renter, without benefit of 'services rendered,' if the resident were not on guard. These fast-talking, high-pressure sales pitches by unscrupulous persons, trying to confuse occupants into parting with their cash, or to sign contracts where they do not benefit as they should, are to be guarded against. Fortunately, it was pointed out, there is a legal four-day canceling time period, for contracts signed in your own home, which could help in some cases. Constable Huskins, in his opening remarks, stated that seniors, as a whole, are the least preyed upon by con artists, of any segment of society - still, they can well be aware, and do all they can to defend themselves from the unscrupulous. A question and answer period followed the presentations, with several matters, which could be problems to homeowners, identified, and solutions suggested. The purpose, Charlene Vagas stated, of the Home Improvement Program for Seniors, is to help seniors remain in their own homes, in comfort and safety, when possible. Information leaflets are available, from both departments, for the asking; call Zenith 22093, regarding the Seniors' Home Improvement Program, or (403) 427-5782, Alberta Consumer and Corporate Affairs for Publication List of helpful brochures. It's a long list, yours for the asking. One need not be uninformed.

Jackie Gulayec

Second Provincial Gold

In 1987, Jackie Gulayec won Provincial Gold in Tier II badminton. At this time she became ranked and therefore she had to advance to a higher level, Tier I. This is the highest level of badminton played. In 1988, Jackie was on her way to Provincials again. With no competition at either county or zone level and very little practice, she won bronze in Tier I. In May 1989, once again Jackie has proven that with hard work and determination you can be the best. Congratulations Jackie, on your Tier I Provincial Gold Medal. You are #1 in the Province of Alberta and we are proud you are a resident of Elk Point.

SECOND PROVINCIAL GOLD FOR JACKIE—Jackie Gulayec, a Grade 12 student at F. G. Miller High School, has won her second Provincial Gold Medal in Badminton. Congratulations!

KEEPING ALBERTA ON THE MOVE

Watch for Alberta Transportation and Utilities road construction in your area this spring and summer.

Our department has contracted construction in many areas of Alberta this year (see map) to maintain existing highways and build new ones to keep the province on the move. For your safety and ours, please slow down and drive with extra care when you see a construction zone. These zones are always well marked. ROADSIDE SIGNS and FLAGPERSONS will direct you safely through or around work areas. The Government of Alberta will spend millions of dollars on roadway construction and upgrading in 1989.* Watch for future notices of specific projects in your area. For more information contact your Alberta Transportation and Utilities' regional office in St. Paul at 645-6330.

* Scheduled projects may be subject to change depending on contractors' schedules and weather.
